We may have a great many cranks here but some have gone elsewhere. The New York Sun published an account Sunday of "The Lord's Farm" in Bergen county, N. Y., whose founder and manager was born in Scranton. His name is Mace T. Huntsman, but on the reservation he is known as Maceon, or "The Holy One." The other original members of his community or the "Angels Dancers" have the striking appellations of John The Baptist, "Silas, The Paric," "The Prodigious," "The Alabaster," "Angel Dancer," etc. The farm is run without the usual accessories of cows, pigs and chickens, as the residents are vegetarians. Mace Huntsman is remembered in this city and as not being considered "bright." Among the citizens who recall his vagaries is Calvin Seybold, who hasn't a very exalted opinion of the manager of "The Lord's Farm." It is said that Huntsman is making a fortune as the "Lord's Treasurer" out of the gullibility of his victims, who work for nothing and assist in sending the farm produce to market.

Miss Jennie Brownstone was in the city last week calling on friends. A number of her recent pictures will be seen at Griffin's studio in the near future. The musical festival promises to be one of the best oratorios yet given in Ocean Grove. Professor Tallie Morgan, of New York, is drilling the choir of a hundred voices, and judging from the excellent time and harmony of tones used one evening this week the chorus work will reflect much credit upon its able leader. It is hoped that a thousand children will take part in the children's festival on the 22nd inst. Rehearsals were given the children on both sides of Wesley Lake. Miss Nedra Morrison, soprano, Mr. H. Evan Williams, tenor; Miss Jennie Hoyle, violinist, will be the soloists of this juvenile oration to Euterpe. The oratorio of "Elijah" will be personally conducted by Dr. Walter Damrosch, the assembly chorus having been led by Professor Tallie Morgan. The local chorus, representing fine talent, drawn from all parts of the United States, will be reinforced by prominent singers from New York societies. The New York Symphony orchestra will be in attendance, and with Damrosch to inspire the whole a magnificent feast of song is anticipated. The soloists who will appear on this occasion, August 12, are: Soprano, Madeline Eleanor Meredith; alto, Mrs. J. Jacoby; tenor, H. Evan Williams; bass, J. C. Dempsey.—Yesterday's Philadelphia Press.

to place cyclometers on the vehicles sent out and charging according to the registration thereof. The contesting instruments work after the fashion of one placed on a bicycle by a well-known firm in this city, not long ago the consequences may be startling. The owner started out and rode a little distance. Upon his return the cyclometer was consulted when the speedman almost tumbled over in a fit to discover that he had made the unparallelled record of 988 miles. The dealer had attached the two miles really covered was taken from the aggregate of 1,000 miles. However, it is likely to be a difficult task to outwit the shrewd bicyclist patron, since experts with the cyclometer know that it is a very simple matter to turn the instrument back if it seems in danger of counting too great a distance.

THEY WERE FINED FIFTEEN DOLLARS

Way That Mayor Bailey Disposed of the Dogtown Riot Cases.

DEFENDANTS MAKE A DISCLAIMER

They Deny That They Were Lawless and Claim the Trouble Was Precipitated by Unwise Conduct of the Officers—After Hearing the Testimony in the Case Mayor Bailey Was Unable to See It in That Light, Another Arrest Made.

"I fine you fifteen dollars." Mayor Bailey's judgment against Edward O'Malley, the Dogtown rioter, was sudden and showed premeditation. The crowd of at least 150 persons in the court room at the city hall yesterday afternoon when the mayor spoke the aforesaid judgment didn't have time to think before his honor continued: "The court's adjourned." Then they fled out. Yesterday's proceedings were as interesting as the events of Sunday night were yesterday. In the forenoon Charles Richards was arrested on a warrant issued by Alderman Fuller and sworn to by Chief-of-Police Robling. The charge as taken directly from the warrant was: "That said Charles Richards in company with fifteen or more persons unknown, did incite a riot and unlawful assembly to the disturbance of the public peace and unlawfully interfered with Officer Walsh and Jones in their effort to quell said riot and arrest certain persons who attacked said officers—against the statutes and peace and dignity of this Commonwealth."

Richard was arrested by Detective Moyn, in the afternoon John Ward, of 229 Fourth street, qualified as a witness in the sum of $500 for Richards' appearance at court. Richards, it is said, is one of the young men who forcibly detained Paulman Walsh in the doorway of John Conr's saloon. Two other warrants are in the hands of one of the local detectives for the arrest of Dogtown young men who were noticed by Patrolman Walsh. DODGETOWN EXCITED. O'Malley, as noted in The Tribune yesterday, was released on a deposit of $25 for his appearance at the hearing announced for 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The friends of Thomas Caffrey, who was arrested for interfering, secured his release early yesterday morning on a deposit of $20. During all of yesterday the residents of the Dogtown district discussed the affair. A fever heat of excitement prevailed. The corridors of the city hall at 10 o'clock, the hour for the hearing, were filled with friends of the men arrested, School Controller Langgan, of the Eighteenth ward, and City Treasurer C. G. Boland being prominent among the interceders who visited Mayor Bailey.

At 10 o'clock a half hundred men were waiting for the hearing. O'Malley's attorney, Frank J. Fitzsimmons, made the request that the case be postponed until 4 o'clock in the afternoon so that his client could summon important witnesses. It was the outspoken intention to oppose to the bitter end the testimony of Patrolman Jones and Walsh. Mayor Bailey acceded to the request and the case was adjourned until 4 o'clock, and for an hour previous, the main corridor at the city hall was fairly choked with men. It was noticed that Attorney Fitzsimmons, C. G. Boland and others were having a conference in Mayor Bailey's study. His honor was present. O'Malley and Caffrey moved about through the crowd in a nervous, restless way. O'Malley's right wrist was wrapped in linen where the handcuff had pinched him.

AT THE HEARING. In the mayor's office were five women, friends of the two men, and Caffrey's children. Down stairs in the police office were Patrolmen Walsh and Jones. Patrolman Jones' right arm is lamed from the blow from the chair, struck by O'Malley. At 4 o'clock Mayor Bailey and Attorney Fitzsimmons, in the presence of the court, held a private conference by the side door and proceeded down stairs to the court room. The crowd followed and took up every seat in the room, a score or so standing. He was present in the court room. He gave his story: He was standing on the corner of Second street and Broadway talking to some friends when Patrolman Jones came along. "He told us to move on," said O'Malley; "I did not obey but looked at him. He said, 'Don't stand there looking at me, move on.' I live right here," I said; "That makes no difference you must move on." I then stepped to the porch of the saloon and said, "I've got a license stand here." (Jones) then made a dive for me and struck me with his club. "Officer Jones!" called out Mayor Bailey. Patrolman Jones gave his story as yesterday's Tribune. He ordered O'Malley to get on the porch and said—When Patrolman Jones repeated the filthy epithet the crowd in the court room laughed. Several women were present. Patrolman Jones then described in detail how O'Malley had used the chair, etc., and how he was finally arrested. Patrolman Jones said "That's all, your honor," and he no sooner had said so when Mayor Bailey, looking at O'Malley, said: "I fine you fifteen dollars."

CAFFREY'S STORY. "Thomas Caffrey" called his honor and Caffrey when asked to tell his story smiled and hung his head as if it were a very funny narration he was going to give. He said he was in bed at the time and heard that O'Malley had been shot. He dressed and went out. Patrolmen Walsh and Jones came along with O'Malley and said Caffrey, "Walsh pointed his gun right at me and fired, saying get back damn you, get back. 'I'll report you for shooting' I said, 'and that's all anybody else would say.'" Patrolman Walsh was called. His testimony was scorching. He said that Caffrey urged the crowd to stone the officers and encouraged them in every way. "I consider," said Patrolman Walsh, "that Caffrey is worse than O'Malley." "Fifteen dollars," said Mayor Bailey suddenly and in a quiet tone. "The court's adjourned." It all passed so quickly that the crowd seemed dazed. O'Malley looked discontented. Surrounded by friends he hung around the city hall for an hour afterward. O'Malley says he will prefer charges against the officers.

VIEWERS MAKE THEIR AWARD.

Lehigh Valley Coal Company Allowed $1,201.92 for the Seized Land.

Fred Fuller, John F. Murphy, James B. Watkins, Robert Jones, Andrew Doole, A. L. Francola and T. E. Reynolds, the viewers in the case of the Lehigh Valley Coal company against the Susquehanna Connecting Railroad company, yesterday made their report, awarding the plaintiff $1,201.92. The defendant company by right of eminent domain seized for a right of way a narrow strip of land, 9.39 acres in extent, in Lackawanna township, belonging to the Lehigh Valley Coal company. The latter thought $16,000 would be a fair compensation for the tract, but the Susquehanna company would not hear to any such figure, and petitioned court to appoint viewers to assess the damages. The viewers held a number of meetings, inquired carefully into the value of the land and heard arguments of counsel on either side, after which they came together on Saturday and framed their report. They say in the report that the land is unimproved, broken ground, rocky and filled with ledges and gullies. The land, they value at $70.92 and for the disadvantages resulting to the plaintiff company from being deprived of its use they allow $500, making $1,201.92. The defendant company represented the Susquehanna company in the transaction, and the plaintiff company was represented by O'Brien & Kelly, Warren & Knapp and H. M. Hannah.

FELL DOWN A SHAFT. William Kerrigan's Terrible Death in the Von Storch Shaft Some Time Sunday Night. The mangled remains of William Kerrigan were found at the foot of the Von Storch shaft yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock by Fire Boss John Kerrigan. Kerrigan was engaged to work Sunday night in place of another man, and as his dinner pail was found on an ash dump near the shaft the supposition is that he fell asleep, and suddenly awakened made his way to the shaft, unfastened the gate and thinking the carriage was up walked off the landing into the shaft. The carriage happened to be at the bottom of the shaft and Kerrigan plunged down the opening striking the bonnet of the carriage with such force as to hurt his body some distance into the gangway, where it was found by Fire Boss Jenkins. Kerrigan's plunge must have been headlong for when found his head was battered to a jelly. The brains were exposed and the body horribly mangled. Kerrigan was 23 years of age and boarded with his sister, Mrs. John Pinnerty, of McDonough avenue. The remains were taken to the home of his parents on Keyser avenue.

TWO SLICK PICKPOCKETS. One Was Arrested, but the Other Had the Money. M. J. Wilson, a young man of 25 years, was arrested yesterday at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station for "picking pockets," or more correctly the contents of the same. Wilson and a pal managed to extract a purse with $70 in it from the pocket of Daniel Langstaff, father of Poor Director W. S. Langstaff.

Wilson and his companion, who resided, it is believed, at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station all through yesterday forenoon. When the 2.10 p. m. train arrived her from Buffalo, the miscreants succeeded in robbing Mr. Langstaff. The latter was one of the passengers. As he came out of the car door one of the fellows bumped into him, as if by accident. While making their apologies the purse was taken. Mr. Langstaff missed his property soon after he stepped off the train. He informed the station policeman, and the other was arrested at once suspected. Wilson was found sitting on a baggage trunk as unconcerned as could be. Detective Stillwell, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, placed him under arrest. Mr. Langstaff recognized him as one of the fellows who had stopped him on the car platform. Wilson was taken before Alderman John T. Howe and in default of $500 bail was sent to the county jail. He protested his innocence of the charge. Some of the money was found in Wilson's possession.

HE THREATENED TO KILL. Charge Preferred Against Richard Morgan, of the West Side. Richard Morgan threatened to exterminate David Williams, of the West Side, a few days ago, and yesterday Alderman Howe, upon request, sent a warrant for Morgan's arrest. The men live on the West Side. Williams avers that Morgan's exact words to him were: "I'll kill you, Davy." Williams is an ex-soldier and his left side is paralyzed. Morgan went before Alderman Keady of the Twenty-first ward, and entered bail in the sum of $300 to appear at court.

JONES' CASE WAS PETTY. So Small That Kelsey, the Defendant, Didn't Have to Defend. J. C. Kelsey was discharged yesterday after he had been arrested on a warrant sworn out from Alderman Howe's office. R. H. Jones was the prosecutor. The two men had quarreled and then Kelsey it appears, assaulted and battered Mr. Jones. Alderman Howe thought that he'd save the court a very interesting investigation so he discharged Kelsey.

SHAFFER ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY

He is the Man Who Once Escaped from Luzerne County Prison.

WAS RECOGNIZED BY AN OFFICER

The Hazelton Police Notified This City That Shaffer Was Wanted for a Burglary Committed Sunday Night. Suspected Man Arrested So After Arriving Here—Tried to Get Rid of a $2.50 Gold Piece, but Was Detected by Officers.

William Shaffer, notorious because of his sensational escape from the Luzerne county jail, aided as he was by the friends of "Terrible Pete," the murderer, is wanted in Hazelton for burglary and was captured in this city yesterday. Shaffer was walking along Lackawanna avenue with Charles Sanford, of this city, when arrested by Patrolman Lona Day who recognized Shaffer. The burglary was committed Sunday night. A millinery store in Hazelton was entered and from a desk in the place a quantity of stuff was taken. Word was received here yesterday morning by the police also a telegraphic message to Detectives Clifford asking them to look out for Shaffer who was suspected of the burglary. Among the things taken was a $2.50 gold piece. Shaffer came here from Wilkes-Barre on the Delaware and Hudson 11.50 a. m. train. When arrested at the corner of Lackawanna and Franklin avenues he protested his innocence. Detective Clifford happened along just then and identified Shaffer. He resisted all the way to the police station, Patrolman Day keeping his club in readiness all the time. When near the site of the old Wyoming house Shaffer dropped a piece of money to the sidewalk. Detective Clifford noticed the movement. He picked up the coin and it was the $2.50 gold piece mentioned in the information. At the police station Shaffer was searched. Under his coat sleeve were a $20, $5, $2 and four $1 bills. Other things found in Shaffer's possession were: $4.50 in silver, one German silver piece, knife, ticket to Wilkes-Barre, 1 comb, 1 bottle of perfume, 1 tie, 1 ring, 4 Columbian half dollars and a regular detective's paraphernalia—a badge, cards for the National Detecting agency, room 10 Osterhout building, Wilkes-Barre; three burglar "keys," and a bull dog revolver, loaded.

The Hazelton police were informed, by telephone, of the capture. They will send an officer for the prisoner. He will reach here at 10 o'clock this morning. Shaffer served a term of one month for his escape from the Wilkes-Barre jail. As will be remembered his escape was part of a plan to release "Terrible Pete" who since suffered the death penalty on the gallows.
